Welcome Message AIMS PRESIDENT

Stephan Fox

On behalf of AIMS, it is my greatest honour to say thank you to each and every one who has contributed to the success of the 2019 United Through Sports Youth festival, for the second consecutive year as part of the SportAccord Convention. There are far too many to thank in person however, I would like to thank the IOC for giving patronage and the heartfelt speech of President Bach. To SportAccord and GAISF President Raffaele Chiulli and GAISF Council for their contribution, the SportAccord team led by Nis Hatt, the GAISF team under Philippe Gueisbuhler, the Queensland Government under Minister Kate Jones, The Australian Olympic Committee under John Coates, Ban Ki Moon and all his energy, His royal Highness Prince Feisal for being so supportive and hands on, the AIMS team under Panida Ottesen, United Through Sports under Julia Govinden, Events Management Queensland and certainly the indigenous community who participated in all elements of festival. To the National and International Federations who contributed immensely bringing their sport to the field of play and the youth. Last but not least, to all the youths who put smiles on so many faces, they simply rocked. Acknowledgment must go to the festival team and to the power of sport, as pioneer Pierre Du Coubertin dreamt of changing the world through sport, I firmly believe this initiative has brought the sport into the accord.

Whilst reflecting on the dynamic inclusive events of the Gold Coast Festival, the Bangkok legacy lives on with the upcoming final of the Bangkok Urban Youth Tournament. History was made in the Kingdom of Thailand, making dreams come true for the youths of the Tak Province refugee camps. Since their participation in the Bangkok festival, they have been given the opportunity to participate in the different sports who have joined forces to provide sports opportunity for these youths.

I believe in progress, that we grow together respecting our past and uniting for our future. What started with an idea in Denmark in 2017 became reality in Bangkok and has now spread roots on the Gold Coast. We are now planning for Beijing and the exciting opportunities the festival can bring to the region. We will continue to strive forward to ensure our existing projects continue to provide opportunity for the youth, our future.

AIMS & UTS INITIATIVE Granted Patronage by The IOC

The AIMS family and United Through Sports team work together with an objective to incorporate the Olympic values in all aspects of the festival promoting Olympism. Leading by example and creating a way of life built upon team work, unity in diversity, mutual respect and striving for excellence. United Through Sports were once again granted patronage for the festival by the International Olympic Committee and to show their support, President Thomas Bach sent a personal message.

Who are UTS?

United Through Sports (UTS) has experienced exponential growth the past year with a focus on driving positive social change and is dedicated to engaging; youth and local communities, International Federations, National Federations, NGO's, cities, businesses as well as Ministries and other organisations involved in the development of sport. At the core is the vision and mission to provide more opportunity and give inclusivity to all youth, nurturing unity in diversity above and beyond social borders ensuring a positive social legacy.

Inaugurated in 2017 by AIMS at the SportAccord Convention Denmark, United Through Sports presented the first festival in Bangkok as part of SportAccord Convention 2018. This AIMS umbrella initiative has brought the Sport into the Accord. With the patronage of the IOC and the support of SportAccord and GAISF, the festival engaged over 1,000 youths from the region where the United Through Sports and AIMS family provided education, introduced novel sports, provided a stage for the youths to showcase their unique talents and offered a platform for fun, friendship and games. One of the major achievements of the festival was the refugee project in which youth were granted permission to leave their camps in the Tak Province of Thailand and participate in the festival and associated events. History was made for many reasons particularly with the acknowledgment from the IOC, governments and acknowledgment in the South-East Asia region.

Just over a year after the closing of the Bangkok Festival, the UTS initiative is thriving. Sports facilities and a recreational centre have been established, where one of the locations is also the hub for the Bangkok Urban Youth Tournament. This exhilarating sport tournament is a by-product of the Bangkok Festival which includes refugee, disadvantaged and migrant youths, who participate regularly in the event. On behalf of all these youths we would like to thank everyone who has contributed to making these feats possible and all those who have and are still contributing to this uplifting cause, we thank you.

UTS Gold Coast Festival Highlights

This year we witnessed UTS light up Australia's Gold Coast with the second consecutive festival once again under the patronage of the IOC, powered by Queensland Government and GAISF activating the local community and the region to participate in the United Through Sports Youth Festival. Months of planning with strong alliances proved successful as the festival was hailed a major success. Over 60 organisations and sports participated in the conferences, sports and health promoting activities engaging the youth within 9 sporting zones. The Queensland youth enjoyed the array of activities and were inspired by Australia's Olympians during the festival days May 8-10, at the beautiful Kurrawa Park.

The social element of the festival incorporated an opening and closing conferences to which the global leaders of sport graced the stage, leaving the audiences inspired and motivated. The Australian Government, Ministry officials, NGO's, Sports Federations, Athletes and the youth supported the conferences and presented informative and moving speeches. The opening ceremony held on the evening of the May 8, at Kurrawa Park, Broadbeach was a vibrant stunning display from 250 youths showing the power of sport at its finest. Olympics Unleashed and the Australian Olympic Committee joined forces with UTS to give empowering educational forums to the youth sharing their journey and imparting life-skills under the Olympic values. The indigenous community participated and supported in all aspects of the festival bolstering cultural inclusion and awareness.

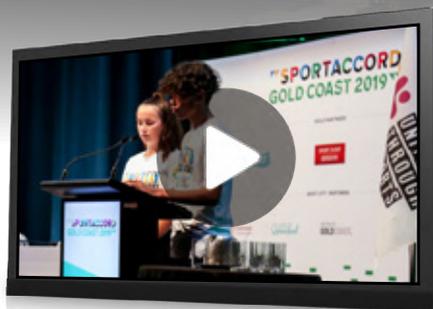

The festival may have left the Gold Coast, however synergies have been cultivated from the formation of new sport federations, NGO's are joining forces towards unified goals, many sport federations are now taking steps to incorporate UTS forums into their own sporting championship events and most importantly, countless youths have been inspired.

Former United Nations Secretary General Ban Ki-Moon addressed the audience on stage at the opening ceremony of the festival, where he expressed how UTS demonstrates the true power of sport and what can be achieved when we unite for common goals. SportAccord and GAISF President, Raffaele Chiulli, spoke on behalf of the GAISF family thanking each and every one for their contribution towards the AIMS and UTS initiative and assured the continued support and that GAISF is proud to power the 2019 Youth festival Joachim Farber, delivered a personal thank you at the closing conference on behalf of President Bach, with a sincere message thanking AIMS and UTS for the initiative and applauded them for showcasing and practicing the Olympic values of inclusivity and friendship particularly with the inclusion of the indigenous community. AIMS President Stephan Fox thanked everyone on behalf of the AIMS family who contributed to the successful festival and looks forward to continuing this initiative giving the youth opportunities, equality and bringing smiles. The festival celebrated a successful closing event with a reception on the beach hosted by Surf Life Saving Australia, witnessing the athleticism of their newest life saving format and raising a toast as the sun set

United Through Sports Youth Festival Opening Conference

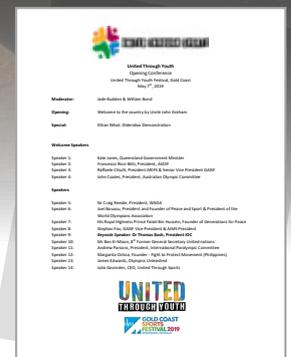

Once again, the festival began with the traditional AIMS and UTS conference delivering a high-impact conference supported by the leaders of the sporting world at the Gold Coast Convention and Exhibition Centre. The conference under the theme “United Through Youth” focused on how the sport platform can offer more opportunities to youth regardless of ability or differences. The speakers came together as experts and pioneers from different organisations to share their wisdom with the leaders of the sport

The conference opened with a lively and warm welcome from Gold Coast’s young hosts Jade Budden (15) from the Biripi tribe and a keen football enthusiast competing with the U16 Oceanic District team William Bond (15) from the Yuin mob. Both Jade and William stood proudly before the SportAccord delegates, Queensland government and the many sport VIPs proudly representing their aboriginal heritage.

Talented musician Ethan Nihon (15) gave an impressive demonstration and explanation how to play Australia’s wind instrument the didgeridoo which had the audience captivated and highly impressed by his proficiency.

The event was opened by prominent elder from the region’s indigenous community, Uncle John Gra- ham who warmly introduced Australia’s cultural significance and gave a traditional welcome to coun- try. Minister Kate Jones for Innovation and Tourism Industry Development and Minister for the Commonwealth Games gave a sincere message to the audience and expressed the importance of giving the youth opportunity to participate in sporting events regardless for competition or a quest for gold.

As the United Through Sports Youth Festival was under patronage of the IOC, to show his support, IOC President Thomas Bach was the keynote speaker. President Bach congratulated the AIMS family and UTS team particularly the President of AIMS, Mr Stephan Fox for pioneering this dynamic initiative. President Bach highlighted the importance of sports functioning under the values of Olympism to encourage youth to respect one another, to play fair and affirming a healthy mind goes hand in hand with a healthy body.

Welcome speeches were also conveyed by newly elected President of SportAccord and GAISF, Mr Raffaele Chiulli. President Chiulli stated all the support of both SportAccord and GAISF towards this initiative and the legacy of last years festival in Bangkok is still on going benefiting challenged youths. The President of Australia's Olympic Committee, Mr John Coates who both share the vision of one united voice in sport.

The opening conference had the pleasure to welcome the Former 8th Secretary General of United Nations, Mr Ban Ki-Moon who spoke passionately about what can be done to ensure that youth engage safely in sports and how UTS is a perfect example to demonstrate how sport has no boundaries. Mr Ban announced AIMS President Stephan Fox's appointment to the position of co-chair for the upcoming World Martial Arts Masterships to take place in Chungju- si, Korea August 28-September 6, 2019.

President of the Jordan Olympic Committee and founder of Generation for Peace His Royal Highness Prince Feisal Al Hussein graced the audience with his powerful speech for the second consecutive year, calling to action all members of the sporting world to incorporate initiatives such as UTS into their sporting events and the positive impact he personally has witnessed since the first festival in Bangkok, 2018.

AIMS President and GAISF Vice President Mr Stephan Fox engaged the audience by reflecting on the growth of UTS and personally thanked the AIMS family and all sporting bodies for their support. Mr Fox encouraged the practice of sports under the Olympic values and focused on the importance of WADA President Sir Craig Reedie also took to the stage for the second consecutive year as a firm supporter of UTS. Sir Craig emphasized the responsibilities of the sporting world to ensure clean competition and a fair opportunity to all youth engaged in sporting events. Mr Joel Bouzou President of World Olympians Association and founder of Peace and Sport spoke about various effective programs within the organisation and the extensive positive impact it has on the lives of countless youths around the world.

President of Paralympics Andrew Parsons was proud to have the involvement of athletes and youth engaged not only in the festival sports but also in all social elements of the festival including the opening ceremony.

James Edwards Head of Community Engagement and Olympian Services for the Australian Olympic Committee praised UTS for their vision and mission towards providing greater access to sports and delivering new opportunities for youths to experience novel sports in the region. Mr Edwards addressed the importance of athletes as role models and the AOC Olympics Unleashed program, which serves to inspire classrooms to be their personal best.

Ms Margarita Ochoa, a prominent athlete from the International Jujitsu Federation left a lasting impression on the audience as she focused with passion on the protection of athletes from abuse and how we can keep the youth first and foremost safe. The Fight To Protect campaign builds awareness on child sexual violence through sports founded in the Philippines.

The conference ended with the CEO of UTS Ms Julia Govinden, who outlined the positive aftermath of the previous festival in Bangkok, April 2018 with donations of sports equipment and new sport facilities established for disadvantaged and displaced youth in Thailand. Ms Govinden thanked all stakeholders and members of the sporting world for their continued support.

"We want to keep this momentum going and create an environment in which we provide opportunities for all youths through the power of sport. The discussion of challenges is vital, and we will continue to work united to provide realistic and sustainable solutions. Our continued close collaboration with our stakeholders will bring inspiration to the youth, our future, which is at the heart of our mission and vision."

Youth Opening Ceremony

On the evening of May 8, 2019 United Through Sports engaged 250 Australian youths of mixed abilities between ages 10-17 in the festival opening ceremony on the main stage of Kurrawa Park to a packed audience of over 700. The event welcomed an audience from the Queensland Government, the leaders of the sporting world, SportAccord delegates, sports organisations, along with the youth and their families from the Queensland region. The event was delivered with the support of Events Management Queensland and spearheaded by UTS CEO Ms Julia Govinden. After weeks of planning the youth of the region truly set the Gold Coast's hearts on fire with a magnificent spectacle of talent.

UTS Festival Opening Ceremony

Nerang State High School Rehearsal

A spectacular parachute jump organised by the Model Aeronautical Association of Australia just after the sun had set lit up the Gold Coast skies, setting the atmosphere for the youth to perform showing their vibrant, dynamic talents. The event focused on inclusivity ensuring sign interpreters gave the event added dynamism. IOC President Thomas Bach showed his continued support of UTS with a warm and welcoming message to the Australian public.

Performances included Nerang State High School Funk band orchestrated by Dean Harawira and various sports including; Latin dance, rhythmic gymnastics, cheerleading, contemporary and breakdance. Classic Australian songs and anthems were performed including a candle-lit marching ceremony to "I am Australian" with youths from all participating festival sports standing together side by side. The powerful rendition of "You're the voice" saw 10 Australian Olympic champions, including Natalie Cook take to the stage holding up flags of the festival supporting organisations including the IOC, AIMS, Commonwealth Games, Queensland Government and SportAccord who stood hand in hand with youths from participating sports federations.

The youth hosts captivated the audience bringing humour, personality and fun coming from a diverse mix of culture and sports. Nerang State High School under coordinator Dean Harawira gave exceptional and moving performances with his musical funk band. Their professionalism and sheer talent literally rocked the Gold Coast.

The infamous 26-piece Drumline Band opened the show with strong energy setting the stage for the Maori Haka youths to pay tribute to those whose lives were lost earlier this year in New Zealand. Their emotion radiated throughout the audience in a truly stunning demonstration of unity and strength.

Emotions ran high for a unique group of performers from Gold Coast Recreation and Sport Inc who touched the audience with their unique energy and spirit. The talented youths with different abilities performed on stage dressed in fun costumes representing Australia's native animals.

To welcome the audience, AIMS President Mr Stephan Fox gave a speech sharing his vision of the festival and the power of sports to unify and promote social change. Mr Ban Ki Moon sent out a strong message stating that we all must work towards providing our youth worldwide with the tools, life skills and opportunity towards a better tomorrow.

The region witnessed a historical moment when the leaders of sport including; Minister Kate Jones, Francesco Ricci Bitti, Ban Ki Moon, Mayor of Gold Coast Tom Tate, SportAccord and GAISF President Raffaele Chiulli, IOC Vice President Anita De Franz, AIMS President Stephan Fox and SportAccord Managing Director Nis Hatt formed a UTS band and came onto the stage with percussion instruments surprising the audience during "Long train running". It was an exceptional and surprising moment for the sporting world where the leaders of sport showed their support towards the youth, reminding us that sport is universal and sport is for everybody.

The perfect ending to a remarkable show was the formation of a love train conga-line towards the field of play led by Honourable Minister Kate Jones, SportAccord and GAISF President Raffaele Chiulli and Mr Ban Ki-Moon followed by many high profile delegates. On the field of play, a touching tribute was made by FIBA honouring the memory of SportAccord and GAISF late President Patrick Baumann, who pioneered one voice in sport and one of the greatest supporters of UTS. The night showcased Lacrosse, Taekwondo, Muaythai and certainly 3X3 Basketball to open the sports festival setting the atmosphere for the days to come.

Gold Coast Sports Festival

It began in Bangkok and is now a key feature at the SportAccord Convention, the Sports Festival. This year, the United Through Sports Youth Gold Coast Sports Festival themed “United Through Youth” was held a short stroll from the Gold Coast Convention Centre at the Kurrawa Park, where the green meets the ocean.

Inactivity is recognised as a significant social issue in Australia, the sports festival gave the Queensland youth access to engage with over 60 international accredited sports and organisations in the morning sessions and the general public in the afternoon. Many of the youth had not experienced some of the available sports, so this was a novel and unique opportunity.

UTS Youth Festival-Gymnastics

United Through Sports Youth Festival

The Queensland Ministry of Education contributed to make the festival accessible as a school excursion for the youth of the region in a structured program involving educational sessions and sports participation. A GAISF passport was given to each of the youth where they gained a stamp of participation from each of the 9 zones; Grass, Centre Court, Martial Art, Combat, Main Stage, Beach, Winter zone, Demonstration and Urban. The morning sessions included many speakers focusing on the Olympic values of sport, inclusivity, women in sport, sport and culture, sports science and health amongst others.

The mascot of United Through Sports, Alexx the Axolotl made a debut on the Gold Coast for the festival and took the opportunity to play and educate the Australian youth as well as meet with many sport dignitaries from around the world.

The sports festival received patronage of the IOC once again and was powered by the Government of Queensland and GAISF delivered by the Alliance of Independent Recognised Members of sports (AIMS).

Special Thanks

We thank the many organisations who joined hands as well as the participating sport federations who dedicated their resources and team effort to give the youth an exceptional experience.

COMMITTEE

A certificate of contribution and participation will be presented to all IFs and NFs who have participated in the festival at the IF Forum November 11-13, 2019.

Olympics Unleashed

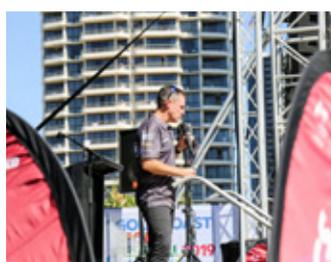

As in each UTS festival, a close cooperation was made with the National Olympic Committee of Australia, where IOC member and AOC President John Coates spoke together with Minister Kate Jones.

Olympics Unleashed is a fantastic initiative inspiring young Australians to unleash their passions. Olympians, Paralympians and athletes from all sports engage with the youth sharing their journey to overcome challenges, set goals and promote the Olympic values.

The festival gave opportunity to engage in the spectrum of sports and also to be inspired and motivated by predominantly female Australian champions and leading athletes in the sporting world. United Through Sports collaborated with Australia's Olympics Unleashed to bring education to the field of play holding daily conferences for the youth of the region, leaving countless youths excited and star struck.

Athlete Deborah Lovely-Acason spoke as a mother and shared her journey through athletics as a hammer thrower where coaches told her she was too short for the sport and too tall to be a weight lifter, yet she persisted despite the odds. Deborah advised the youth to do their best and put in the work towards their passion without cutting corners because eventually they have a way of catching up to you and urged her young audience to listen to the right voices.

Meggie Ochoa another enthusiastic and passionate athlete spoke about her sport and her personal initiative made a significant impactful. She demonstrated how people of different sizes and their abilities can all be masters at their craft. Her key points included; Solving the world's problems by working together as one, finding your worth and fighting spirit through sport and the power of sport to give you confidence: "There is no limit in this world and no one that can tell you that you cannot do something" Sport has taught her: "Yes I can".

Alyce Burnett spoke to the youth about the importance of enjoying yourself and having fun in your pursuits. Alyce explained that there is more to training than just ticking the boxes and going home, she believes being able to enjoy yourself separates a good athlete from the best athlete. "We all want to be the best version of ourselves but for us, we just want to have a good time."

We would like to extend our thanks and appreciation for the value each athlete brought to countless youths, dedicating their experience, knowledge and time to share their journeys and inspire our future.

CEO of Gold Coast Recreation & sport Inc, Anna-Louise Kassulke highlighted the positive impact of sports for youths with different abilities and the importance of access to sport regardless to ability.

Right To Play Asia Director Niamh De' Loughry shared the work of RTP and indigenous integration programs they have successfully implemented in Canada as well as their work with disadvantaged youths to give them access to sports. Julia Govinden, CEO of UTS gave closing remarks and summarized the festival giving thanks to everyone for their contribution to yet another successful festival on the Gold Coast.

The final closing of the festival was held on the field of play hosted by Surf Life Saving Australia by President Graham Ford sharing their plans for the future. A toast was made as the sun set on the beautiful Broadbeach alongside the indigenous community leaving a lasting impression as a boomerang was thrown and with wishes that like the boomerang, delegates will come back to the Gold Coast and continue their sincere work.

What's Next for United Through Sports?

UTS will continue to operate under AIMS welcoming organisations around the world to unite and provide sporting opportunities towards the future of our youth.

UTS will continue in partnership and/ or support of the IOC, SportAccord and GAISF and work towards Beijing 2020, to deliver another fantastic festival, alongside the LOC and Beijing youth and sport organisations.

AIMS will continue to spearhead UTS and where many federations are now including conferences and sports festivals into their events. The UTS team led by CEO Julia Govinden along with AIMS Executive Director Panida Ottesen would like to thank everyone for their support. To the IOC, Queensland Government, GAISF and AIMS for their financial contribution towards the festival, our most gracious thanks and appreciation. To the team at IFMA, a heartfelt thanks for their work and support on the ground to help us realise our vision. UTS and AIMS would like to thank all those who are at the heart of the initiative, your contributions make a real difference to so many.
